次の(a)~(c)の英文を読み、下線部を日本語に直しなさい。

(a) Shootings of children in their schools shock the world whether they happen in Scotland, Chechnya or the United States. It is the nightmare of every parent that their children could be injured or killed in a place where they go nearly every day and where they should be safe. When school shootings occur, television coverage is focused so intensely on them that sometimes a “*copy cat” killer is encouraged to commit a similar horrible act of violence.

*copy cat 模倣

(b) Although people think they make 15 food decisions a day on average, the number is well over 200. Experiments have examined what makes people eat the way they do. It is now known that things like how big a plate is or how fancy the packaging is all influence how much people eat. Frequently the amount of food a person eats changes up or down by more than 20 percent, depending on how much his or her dining companion eats.

(c) In ordinary life we hardly realize that we receive a great deal more than we give, and that it is only with gratitude that life becomes rich. It is very easy to overestimate the importance of our own achievements in comparison with what others have done for us.
